DOJI REN IS THE RIGHT CHARACTER FOR YOU!

Enter the Emerald Empire with Doji Ren!

You would be wise to select this character if you want to:

- ✿ Be an expert at diplomacy and courtly etiquette
- ✿ Belong to a clan that focuses on politics and culture
- ✿ Solve your problems with eloquence and cunning

It would be unwise, however, to choose Doji Ren if you desire a character who excels at the use of weapons, uses the inner power of ki to empower their martial arts, or wields the power of the elements.

Doji Ren's Story

Ren's household is neither rich nor powerful, by the standards of the Doji family. Some considered his father, who oversaw shipping in and out of the port town of Morning Mist City, little more than a merchant. Perhaps this is why Ren has an abiding love of fanciful stories and books, tales of being greater and more magnificent than any mortal could be. Certainly, he has always wanted to be seen as what he knows he truly is: a member of the most powerful and prestigious family in the Empire, as far above a merchant as a crane is above an ant.

Ren's outlook on life changed dramatically three years ago, when the tsunami hit the Crane coast and almost completely destroyed Morning Mist City. Ren's father died in the flood, and his mother, who was at sea at the time, was missing for weeks. Her boat was later "recovered" by pirates belonging to the Mantis Clan, and she was returned unharmed but without her cargo.

From then on, Ren has remained sincerely devoted to his studies. So much so, that he has been selected to represent the Doji Diplomat School in the Topaz Tournament in Tsuma. If Ren can both achieve his gempuku—his ceremonial transition to adulthood and becoming a full samurai—and also become Topaz Champion, then perhaps his dreams of adventure are not as far off as he feared.
